7.3.1 Distinctiveness of the Institution:

More number of female students are from Rural belt. Our College is very much committed to work as per its Vision and Mission statement. Majority of the villagers, farmers, parents still follow the older tradition in the midst of changing scenario of Urbanization, Privatization and Globalization. To empower the women folk at a larger scale and uplift every village to the main stream, staff of the college put maximum efforts to convince, motivate and promote for higher education of female wards. Keeping the thought in mind that one educated female can lead the rest of the family towards quality education, every neighbouring villagers, farmers, illiterate parents are made very much aware about the scope of higher education, provisions from State and Central government. This has resulted in increase in the strength of students being enrolled from rural belt, even though college is situated in urban background. The distinctiveness of this college, is our esteemed Administrator and Chairman are committed and dedicated in facilitating higher education in possible major places of Karnataka State has driven attention of villagers, illiterates, farmers irrespective of their religious background, which in a way successfully motivated their daughters to continue higher education rather than discontinuing it at an early age and getting them married. Our esteemed Administrator and Chairman established our women's college so as to empower female students so that they in turn educate and empower their entire family members, which turns out to be strength for our country. One of the most prominent positive atmosphere in the college felt by every student is the parental care by staff of the college. The track record of the academic performance of the students is remarkable and also ranks at university level and good number of sports laurels including university blues.

CASE 1: Computer Education for all students,

1.Objective of the practice:

To educate students on ICT and basic computer skills for BA students.

2.Context:

In addition to the prescribed syllabus for BA and B.Com., to enrich the course curriculum and prepare students competent for getting placed after graduation, college has introduced value added courses i.e., Fundamentals of Computers.

3.The Practice:

All undergraduates are given compulsory computer training. Those who are Non-computer students and do not have the facility to operate computers are given a separate computer lab in order to acquire minimum computer knowledge at the degree level. Final year degree students are offered a six-month short term course.

4.Evidence of Success: Many have picked up adequate computing skills; some have found it useful to seek employment.

5.Resources: College has taken care about the necessary financial requisition and facilitated accordingly to implement this course during the year.
